BIENNIAL REPORT
OF THE
SECRETARY OF STATE
OF COLORADO,

FOR THE FISCAL YEARS

Ending November 30, 1889, and November 30, 1890.

JAMES RICE, SECRETARY OF STATE.

DENVER, COLORADO:
THE COLLIER & CLEVELAND LITH. CO., STATE PRINTERS.
1890.

REPORT.

STATE OF COLORADO,
SECRETARY OF STATE'S OFFICE,
DENVER, November 15, 1890. }

To His Excellency,

HON. JOB A. COOPER,

Governor of Colorado:

DEAR SIR:

In compliance with the law of this State, it is my duty to report to your Excellency, the business transactions of the Office of Secretary of State, for the two fiscal years ending October 30, 1890.

I have ruled as far as possible, so as to comply with the intent of the law, when companies or corporations have previously paid filing fees, and have desired to consolidate their interests under new titles, the office has given them credit for fees previously paid; there has been a good many such cases, and we have considered it justice and an equitable way to deal.

There has been filed in this office for the two years about one thousand six hundred Articles of Incorporation, representing a capital stock aggregating $445,484,335.00, the filing fees of which has been ten cents per $1,000.

As some mention has been made of supplies of printing and stationery furnished the General Assemblies of the State, and which has hitherto cost from $15,000 to $20,000 to outfit each session, I am glad to say, that for the first time in the history of this State the Eighth General Assembly will be supplied with all that is needed and all that is usual at such times without the expenditure of a dollar for furniture, and less than $325 for stationery.

In conclusion, I extend to you, Governor Job A. Cooper, thanks for the many considerations from your hands and to all State officers and employés and assistants in my office, one and all, I have nothing but kind words and wishes, and hope you all will find much that is both profitable and pleasant in your lives, and,

I remain, sincerely yours,

JAMES RICE,
Secretary of State.

STATE OF COLORADO,
SECRETARY OF STATE'S OFFICE,
DENVER, COLO., Dec. 18, 1890. }

To his Excellency,

HON. JOB A. COOPER.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR :

I take pleasure in herewith transmitting to you a letter which contains the reasons why the bids lately made for State supplies, were rejected, and remain,

Yours most respectfully,

JAMES RICE,

Secretary of State.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S OFFICE, }
DENVER, COLORADO, December 18, 1890. }

To the Bidders for Printing and Stationery Supplies for the State of Colorado:

GENTLEMEN:

On the fifteenth day of this month you were present at the opening of the bids for printing and stationery supplies for the State, since which time the whole force of the Secretary of State's office has been engaged in figuring over the various bids, and approximating, as far as possible, the amount of supplies to be required by the State.

Two years ago was the first and only time that I have had anything to do with the letting of State contracts. I found, upon entering the duties of this office, that contracts were in existence, running for the following two years, therefore, there was nothing left for me to do but to follow out the provisions of the then existing contracts. As the time arrived for letting the contracts two years ago, I looked up the matter, as far as I could from any records of this office, and found that the contracts, as far as anything would indicate, had been let strictly in accordance with the law, and the same general course and system of letting seemed to have prevailed since the law had been enacted in 1887.

We did not presume to call for bids in any different manner from the way the law indicated at that time, neither could we at this time. The matter was commented upon by the Board two years ago, as to the way in which the law called for bids, and also the way in which they had been hitherto accepted; we did not then deem it best to step aside and establish an entirely new precedent and make an arbitrary ruling. I speak of this only as introductory, to assure you that we only arrived at a conclusion of making what may seem an arbitrary ruling at this time, from the fact that our experience has convinced us that there was no other way to protect the interests of the State, but to do so.

We have complied strictly with the provisions of the law in advertising for bids for supplies. We did not advertise for bids for furniture, as the law provides, for the reason that there was none needed.

The law contains a provision that says: "The Secretary of State may reject any and all bids, if he shall deem it for the best interests of the State to do so." The practical meaning of this provision is that the Secretary of State is responsible for the letting of these contracts. It will be noticed that acting under this provision of law, the contracts which would be let at this time are in force during the entire term of my successor.

I think it is fair that a statement should be made of some of my reasons for having arrived at the conclusion you will find in this letter. Since the organization of the State Government all my predecessors have seemed to consider it to be part of their duty to approve all bills for supplies furnished the State, although up to 1887 there was no law requiring them to approve of any bill, and the general understanding, as far as I have been able to learn, was that this approval only went to the question that the goods mentioned in the different bills were actually furnished to the State. The custom has seemed to prevail that each and every department throughout the whole State Government could go and order such quality and quantity of supplies as they chose to select. True, it would be upon the order, possibly, of the Secretary of State, but there was no law in force to imply that these goods should pass the examination of any officer but the one making the selection.

The following provision is enacted as a part of the appropriation act of 1887: "Bills for printing to be approved by the Secretary of State and audited by the Auditor of State." This is the first and only enactment of our State Legislatures requiring the Secretary of State to, in any manner, approve of any bills, and I followed the precedent established for years—that such approval was but the endorsement of the Secretary that the articles were furnished.

As regards the printing, this is a technical business, and I think it is unfair to presume that every man elected to a State office is a practical printer, and familiar with this business. Acting under the present law, I fail to see how the interests of the State can be properly protected unless he is one. Of course, the law provides at the present time for a State measurer of printing to measure and report upon the correctness of bills running anywhere from $25,000 to $50,000 per year. The State, when they enacted that law, seems to have placed but slight importance upon that office, as they only provided for a salary of $100 a year. All understand that it is impossible to get a competent person to look after this work and protect the interests of the State, for such a salary. Speaking of the technical part of the work, experience has forcibly brought this to our attention. An illustration of this kind presents itself in the present contract, and I find that it exists in all bids, from whomsoever received, and all contracts heretofore let. That is this: The contract reads: "The State printer shall receive twenty-five cents for 1000 Ms. of straight composition of printed matter." Upon investigation it is learned that all printers, under the rules of the Typographical Union, have to pay to the type-setter from 45 cents to 60 cents per 1000 Ms. He then necessarily has to do the work for the State at a loss on this particular item, and he makes the loss up on some other part of his contract, which can easily be done by charging extra on technical work that would escape the observation, and with which few, if any, of the State officers would be familiar, unless he was a practical printer. It has been said, and I think with some degree of truth, that the bidders for printing assumed that they were bidding upon the percentage plan. As section 3, page 804, G. S. says: "And such bids shall specify at what per cent. below the maximum rates severally prescribed in section 1 of this chapter, the bidder will perform the work and furnish the stock," there seems to be law to sustain the percentage theory, and you had good reason for your position that you were bidding on the percentage plan. I would like to illustrate this: Here are bids in my hands for printing 1000 XXX No. 6 envelopes for 1-20 of one cent for the whole 1000; the maximum price laid down on page 803, G. S., is $5 for the same work. The same bid proposes to print 1000 12-lb. letter-heads for 1-20 of one cent for the whole 1000; the maximum price allowed by law, is $5. If some one will explain to us what per cent. this bidder (provided he should receive the contract), would have to charge up upon some other class of work, in order to make himself even on the contract, my knowledge on the subject of percentage would be greatly improved.

There seems to be two lines of figures in all these bids, both for printing and stationery. I do not know that they can be called by a better name than a business line and a ridiculous line. The law could call for bids for printing and supplies at commercial rates, and contracts be let at the lowest possible bid on a commercial basis, and the law could say to the Board that all bids containing items at prices that are misleading and unbusiness-like should receive no attention or consideration at their hands. If such were the case, the labors of the Board would be reduced to a minimum. As it is now, in the printing bids, the Board has to contend with a whole line, bearing over fifty articles, that, on a commercial basis, would probably, as an illustration and as a fact, range from fifty cents to $5. Still bids come to us under this head all the way from one-tenth of a cent to one cent. In the five bids before this Board, we found but one exception to this class of bidding to which I refer, and that was the bid from the Rocky Mountain News. The bids before the Board from the stationery dealers, while perhaps not quite so extreme in the ridiculous line of figures, are sufficient to cause the Board a great amount of annoyance. It is a fact that there are many things in the proposals called for by the State, that there is but little demand for; likely many that will not be called for in the whole two years. Some of the bidders seem to take advantage of that fact, and, working on the percentage system, as they call it, propose a nominally low figure on very many of the articles in the proposal. The result of such bidding would make a very small footing of the totals.

The same law that I speak of as being practical in regard to printing bids being made upon a commercial basis, would apply also to the stationery bids. The matter can well be illustrated by two or three items: For instance, 16-lb. legal cap paper, by some of the bidders, is $2.90 a ream; another bidder, 60 cents a ream. Another class of the same paper is $3.55 a ream by one bidder; by another bidder, 60 cents a ream for the same article. Ten-lb. letter paper, linen, by some bidders is $3 a ream; by another bidder, 60 cents a ream. Envelopes, $2.25 a thousand by some bidders; by others, 30 and 60 cents a thousand.

The larger prices spoken of are not far from commercial rates; the others are not far from ridiculous rates. If these goods were, under the law, purchased in quantities, by contract, in sufficient quantities to supply the State for a year, on bids made upon a commercial basis, and furnished by the lowest bidder; turned over to the State at some time, examined by a competent committee, whose qualifications should be prescribed, and by that committee checked off, certified to as being correct in quantity and quality, according to contract, and turned over to a State store-keeper (who should be required to give a good bond), issued to the various departments on the requisitions by the heads of the departments, then such bidding as I have spoken of never would occur.

When you were here the other day at the opening of these bids, there were three propositions spoken of by me, which it was thought we could take advantage of under the law, and are still of that opinion. The two first ones were these: First—That we divide up the letting of the contracts to different individuals. Second—That we go through with the bids and ascertain who was the lowest bidder on the largest block of work and supplies to be furnished the State, and endeavor to let the contracts upon that basis. The other proposition I will pass for the present.

We have worked, as I have said in the commencement of this letter, faithfully on the two propositions. The percentage proposition, which has prevailed since the commencement of the State government, we ignored entirely. We thought that there was a fair show from the number of bids and the variety of the bidding, that one of the two propositions would help us out so that we could at this time render you a decision in favor of some one or more of you to enter into a contract with this State, but in all ways that we could figure it, we stumbled against prices of articles that would seem to have to classify themselves with others and would have to be put in one contract, and the prices were of that extraordinary kind that we were baffled at every turn taken. For instance, classes that would have to merge together articles that we know would be extremely low for the State to purchase, finds a kindred article to go with it, and which could not well be divorced from it, was comparatively much higher.

All these illustrations that I have given you are taken simply to show you how far the law itself allows you to go in making these extreme figures one way or the other, and presenting them to this Board. They are not taken for any other purpose than for illustration. I might give many more, but these are sufficient to show the necessity of a careful revision of the present laws. The demand for the revision of these laws is general, and the necessity for it apparent, and I do not believe that we would be giving proper attention to the interests of the people should we so act at this time as to require the incoming officer in the Secretary of State's office to receive supplies furnished under a contract let within a knowledge of the defects of the present law.

While it is true that the present contract for printing and stationery expires on the second day of January, and that after that time and until new contracts are awarded there will not be any contracts for printing or stationery, yet, as the Legislature meets within the next few days, a law can be passed and become operative within a short time after they assemble. Contracts can then be let under the new law and the interests of the State thereby be protected. The only supplies required at this time will be the necessary printing for the Assembly during its session, and until the enactment of the new law the Assembly itself can make all needful provisions.

With the views, as above stated, which I entertain, I shall close this letter by again calling your attention to the fact that the Secretary of State "may reject any and all bids if he shall deem it for the best interests of the State to do so." Therefore your bids are all rejected.

I thank you all for the courtesy and gentlemanly treatment extended to us at our meeting on last Monday.

Yours, most respectfully,

JAMES RICE,
Secretary of State.

LETTER REJECTING BIDS

FOR STATE SUPPLIES FOR THE YEARS 1891 AND 1892.

SECRETARY OF STATE'S OFFICE, }
DENVER, COLORADO, December 18, 1890. }

To the Bidders for Printing and Stationery Supplies for the State of Colorado:

GENTLEMEN:

On the fifteenth day of this month you were present at the opening of the bids for printing and stationery supplies for the State, since which time the whole force of the Secretary of State's office has been engaged in figuring over the various bids, and approximating, as far as possible, the amount of supplies to be required by the State.

Two years ago was the first and only time that I have had anything to do with the letting of State contracts. I found, upon entering the duties of this office, that contracts were in existence, running for the following two years, therefore, there was nothing left for me to do but to follow out the provisions of the then existing contracts. As the time arrived for letting the contracts two years ago, I looked up the matter, as far as I could from any records of this office, and found that the contracts, as far as anything would indicate, had been let strictly in accordance with the law, and the same general course and system of letting seemed to have prevailed since the law had been enacted in 1887.

We did not presume to call for bids in any different manner than the way the law indicated at that time, neither could we at this time. The matter was commented upon by the Board two years ago, as to the way in which the law called for bids, and also the way in which they had been hitherto accepted; we did not then deem it best to step aside and establish an entirely new precedent and make an arbitrary ruling. I speak of this only as introductory, to assure you that we only arrived at a conclusion of making what may seem an arbitrary ruling at this time, from the fact that our experience has convinced us that there was no other way to protect the interests of the State, but to do so.

We have complied strictly with the provisions of the law in advertising for bids for supplies. We did not advertise for bids for furniture, as the law provides, for the reason that there was none needed.

The law contains a provision that says: "The Secretary of State may reject any and all bids, if he shall deem it for the best interests of the State to do so." The practical meaning of this provision is that the Secretary of State is responsible for the letting of these contracts. It will be noticed that acting under this provision of law, the contracts which would be let at this time are in force during the entire term of my successor.

I think it is fair that a statement should be made of some of my reasons for having arrived at the conclusion you will find in this letter. Since the organization of the State Government all my predecessors have seemed to consider it to be part of their duty to approve all bills for supplies furnished the State, although up to 1887 there was no law requiring them to approve of any bill, and the general understanding, as far as I have been able to learn, was that this approval only went to the question that the goods mentioned in the different bills were actually furnished to the State. The custom has seemed to prevail that each and every department throughout the whole State Government could go and order such quality and quantity of supplies as they chose to select. True, it would be upon the order, possibly, of the Secretary of State, but there was no law in force to imply that these goods should pass the examination of any officer but the one making the selection.

The following provision is enacted as a part of the appropriation act of 1887: "Bills for printing to be approved by the Secretary of State and audited by the Auditor of State." This is the first and only enactment of our State Legislatures requiring the Secretary of State to, in any manner, approve of any bills, and I followed the precedent established for years—that such approval was but the endorsement of the Secretary that the articles were furnished.

As regards the printing, this is a technical business, and I think it is unfair to presume that every man selected to a State office is a practical printer, and familiar with this business. Acting under the present law, I fail to see how the interests of the State can be properly protected unless he is one. Of course, the law provides at the present time for a State measurer of printing to measure and report upon the correctness of bills running anywhere from $25,000 to $50,000 per year. The State, when they enacted that law, seems to have placed but slight importance upon that office, as they only provided for a salary of $100 a year. All understand that it is impossible to get a competent person to look after this work and protect the interests of the State, for such a salary. Speaking of the technical part of the work, experience has forcibly brought this to our attention. An illustration of this kind presents itself in the present contract, and I find that it exists in all bids, from whomsoever received, and all contracts heretofore let. That is this: The contract reads: "The State printer shall receive twenty-five cents for 1000 Ms. of straight composition of printed matter." Upon investigation it is learned that all printers, under the rules of the Typographical Union, have to pay to the type-setter from 45 to 60 cents per 1000 Ms. He then necessarily has to do the work for the State at a loss on this particular item, and he makes the loss up on some other part of his contract, which can easily be done by charging extra on technical work that would escape the observation, and with which few, if any, of the State officers would be familiar, unless he was a practical printer. It has been said, and I think with some degree of truth, that the bidders for printing assumed that they were bidding upon the percentage plan. As section 3, page 804, General Statutes says: "And such bids shall specify at what per cent. below the maximum rates severally prescribed in section 1 of this chapter, the bidder will perform the work and furnish the stock," there seems to be law to sustain the percentage theory, and you had good reason for your position that you were bidding on the percentage plan. I would like to illustrate this: Here are bids in my hands for printing 1000 XXX No. 6 envelopes for 1-20 of one cent for the whole 1000; the maximum price laid down on page 803, G. S., is $5 for the same work. The same bid proposes to print 1000 12-lb. letter-heads for 1-20 of one cent for the whole 1000; the maximum price allowed by law, is $5. If some one will explain to us what per cent. this bidder (provided he should receive the contract), would have to charge up upon some other class of work, in order to make himself even on the contract, my knowledge on the subject of percentage would be greatly improved.

There seems to be two lines of figures in all these bids, both for printing and stationery. I do not know that they can be called by a better name than a business line and a ridiculous line. The law could call for bids for printing and supplies at commercial rates, and contracts be let at the lowest possible bid on a commercial basis, and the law could say to the Board that all bids containing items at prices that are misleading and unbusiness-like should receive no attention or consideration at their hands. If such were the case, the labors of the Board would be reduced to a minimum. As it is now, in the printing bids, the Board has to contend with a whole line, bearing over fifty articles, that, on a commercial basis, would probably, as an illustration and as a fact, range from fifty cents to $5. Still bids come to us under this head all the way from one-tenth of a cent to one cent. In the five bids before this Board, we found but one exception to this class of bidding to which I refer, and that was the bid from the Rocky Mountain News. The bids before the Board from the stationery dealers, while perhaps not quite so extreme in the ridiculous line of figures, are sufficient to cause the Board a great amount of annoyance. It is a fact that there are many things in the proposals called for by the State, that there is but little demand for; likely many that will not be called for in the whole two years. Some of the bidders seem to take advantage of that fact, and, working upon the percentage plan, as they call it, propose a nominally low figure on very many of the articles in the proposal. The result of such bidding would make a very small footing of the totals.

The same law that I speak of as being practical in regard to printing bids being made upon a commercial basis, would apply also to the stationery bids. The matter can well be illustrated by two or three items: For instance, 16-lb. legal cap paper, by some of the bidders, is $2.90 a ream; another bidder, 60 cents a ream. Another class of the same paper is $3.55 a ream by one bidder; by another bidder, 60 cents a ream for the same article. Ten-lb. letter paper, linen, by some bidders is $3 a ream; by another bidder, 60 cents a ream. Envelopes, $2.25 a thousand by some bidders; by others, 30 and 60 cents a thousand.

The larger prices spoken of are not far from commercial rates; the others are not far from ridiculous rates. If these goods were, under the law, purchased in quantities, by contract, in sufficient quantities to supply the State for a year, on bids made upon a commercial basis, and furnished by the lowest bidder, turned over to the State at same time, examined by a competent committee, whose qualifications should be prescribed, and by that committee checked off, certified to as being correct in quantity and quality, according to contract, and turned over to a store-keeper (who should be required to give a good bond), issued to the various departments, then such bidding as I have spoken of never would occur.

When you were here the other day at the opening of these bids, there were three propositions spoken of by me, which it was thought we could take advantage of under the law, and we are still of that opinion. The two first ones were these: First—That we divide up the letting of the contracts to different individuals. Second—That we go through with the bids and ascertain who was the lowest bidder on the largest block of work and supplies to be furnished the State, and endeavor to let the contracts upon that basis. The other proposition I will pass for the present.

We have worked, as I have said in the commencement of this letter, faithfully on the two propositions. The percentage proposition, which has prevailed since the commencement of the State government, we ignored entirely. We thought that there was a fair show from the number of bids and the variety of the bidding, that one of the two propositions would help us out so that we could at this time render you a decision in favor of some one or more of you to enter into a contract with this State, but in all ways that we could figure it, we stumbled against prices of articles that would seem to have to classify themselves with others and would have to be put in one contract, and the prices were of that extraordinary kind that we were baffled at every turn taken. For instance, classes that would have to merge together articles that we know would be extremely low for the State to purchase, finds a kindred article to go with it, and which could not well be divorced from it, which was comparatively as much higher.

All these illustrations that I have given you are taken simply to show you how far the law itself allows you to go in making these extreme figures one way or the other, and presenting them to this Board. They are not taken for any other purpose than for illustration. I might give many more, but these are sufficient to show the necessity of a careful revision of the present laws. The demand for the revision of these laws is general, and the necessity for it apparent, and I do not believe that we would be giving proper attention to the interests of the people should we so act at this time as to require the incoming officer in the Secretary of State's office to receive supplies furnished under a contract let within a knowledge of the defects of the present law.

While it is true that the present contract for printing and stationery expires on the second day of January, and that after that time and until new contracts are awarded there will not be any contracts for printing or stationery, yet, as the Legislature meets within the next few days, a law can be passed and become operative within a short time after they assemble. Contracts can then be let under the new law and the interests of the State thereby be protected. The only supplies required at this time will be the necessary printing for the Assembly during its session, and until the enactment of the new law the Assembly itself can make all needful provisions.

With the views, as above stated, which I entertain, I shall close this letter by again calling your attention to the fact that the Secretary of State "may reject any and all bids if he shall deem it for the best interests of the State to do so." Therefore your bids are all rejected.

I thank you all for the courtesy and gentlemanly treatment extended to us at our meeting on last Monday.

Yours, most respectfully,

JAMES RICE,
Secretary of State.
